

Drinks Selection

If there is a Scottish product available to us that is equivalent to the market leader then we choose to support our fellow Scottish businesses.

Scotland is awash with fantastic artisan food producers and we love finding, sampling and then showcasing the best produce that Scotland has to offer.

Our drink selection is no different. With a long history of brewing and distilling the selection of Scottish made drinks is constantly growing and evolving. Everything from real lemonades to rum is being produced all over Scotland by people passionate about their products.

In recent years an explosion of new companies has led to a rapid growth in terms of style and range of drinks that are now being made. Innovation and experimentation are leading to new and exciting products being launched almost on a weekly basis.

It is no longer just Whisky that Scotland is recognised for. Over 70% of all Gin produced in the UK is now made in Scotland, add to that the Scottish Vodkas, Rums, Beers, Liqueurs, Soft Drinks & Tonics and as you will see it is almost possible to fully stock a bar with just Scottish produce.

One exception is our wine list. Scotland does produce some very good quality fruit wines but we have chosen to offer a selection of wines from around the world many of them from vineyards that Scott & Steph have visited on their travels or from producers that we have met at tastings and trade fairs.

There may be some drink categories that we do not stock due to our size and location, please ask and we will be happy to recommend an alternative.

Cocktails

The following cocktail list showcases some of our favourite Scottish products. Our bar is stocked with almost 100% Scottish made drinks (wine is the exception) the variety of drinks produced in Scotland allows us to make a variety of cocktails but there are still a few product that are not available to us.

Scottish Gin

New distilleries are opening up all over the country, and there's never been a better time to enjoy Scottish gin which accounts for 70% of the UK's overall gin production. Such a diverse category leads to a variety of different tastes and styles to sample.

 We normally have around 50 different Scottish Gins available and we change the range every week. The following list is just an example of some of the gins that we stock *****

25ml

Crossbill

Crossbill Highland Distilling, Glasgow, 43.8%

£6.50

With the help of the Forestry Commission and PlantLife.org, Crossbill has revived Scotland's juniper production and is able to produce the only gin to use 100% Scottish juniper. A celebration of juniper and rosehip, two bold and fresh Highland botanicals.

Tobermory

Tobermory Distillery, Isle of Mull, 43.3%

£6.50

All of the hand-picked botanicals including heather, Hebridean tea, juniper and sweet orange peel, are steeped for a minimum of 24 hours in a unique base spirit. This spirit is made up of both Grain Neutral Spirit and our spirit from Tobermory's own whisky stills. Fresh juniper balanced with sweet orange and lemon, hints of coriander, gentle herbs and spices, with a luxurious, creamy mouth-feel and a hint of sweet malt.

Lussa

Ardlussa, Isle of Jura, 42.0%

£6.50

Lussa use 15 botanicals that they grow or forage themselves on the island. They grow roses, lemon balm and ground elder and also forage for sea lettuce, bog myrtle, watermint, elderflower, Scots pine, honeysuckle, lime flowers and rosehips. The other main ingredient is lemon thyme which they grow in their own polytunnels and source from the local community – often in exchange for Lussa gin!

Lussa Gin has a complex flavour with fresh and zingy lemon thyme, balanced with the pine notes of juniper, a touch of warmth from coriander seed all bound together with the smoothness of rose.

25ml

Achroous

Electric Spirit Co, Leith, 41.0%

£6.50

Other than juniper, The Electric Spirit Co. opted for non-traditional botanicals including Sichuan Pepper, which adds a woody, floral warmth and spice to the taste. Sensitive made so the botanicals blend and compliment the faint aniseed and herbal kick of fennel.

Lind & Lime

Port of Leith Distillery, Leith, 44.0%

£6.50

Born in Edinburgh in 1716, James Lind is a relatively unsung hero, by 1747 he had become Surgeon of a ship called HMS Salisbury. It was on this vessel that he conducted what is recognised today as one of the first clinical trials ever recorded. Lind selected twelve sailors on the Salisbury with scurvy, and allocated two men each to six different treatments for a period of fourteen days. He recorded that the 'most sudden and visible good effects' were shown by the sailors eating citrus fruits. Hence the addition of lime within this gin. To balance the powerful citrus freshness, the distillers also used pink peppercorn alongside five other botanicals (including juniper) to create the recipe.

Downpour

North Uist Distillery Co. North Uist, 46.0%

£6.50

North Uist Distillery began life in 2019, the result of a long held dream of owners Kate & Jonny to build a vibrant new distillery on their island home. Whisky is in the making but for now we have the fantastic Downpour gin to enjoy.

"Citrus, spice and blossoms of wild Hebridean heather. Our special Scottish Gin is bursting with botanicals, drenching you in big bold flavours you can taste in every drop." That's what Kate & Jonny say and we tend to agree, a good hit of spice makes this a really tasty drop!

25ml

Arbikie Kirsty's

Arbikie Highland Estate, Angus, 43.0%

£6.50

Distilled from potatoes, Kirsty's Gin is named after master distiller at Arbikie, Kirsty Black, who carefully chose local botanicals to represent Arbikie's unique landscape and surroundings. The kelp, carline thistle and blaeberreries represent the elements of ocean, rock & land that surround the Scottish east coast farmlands. Smooth, creamy, floral, citrus with delicate black pepper notes.

Arbikie AK's

Arbikie Highland Estate, Angus, 43.0%

£6.50

AK'S Gin is distilled using wheat farmed at Arbikie. It is flavoured with fresh honey, black pepper and cardamon. The honey originates from nearby bees that forage the local area. The Viscount wheat is grown in Arbikie's own fields a stones-throw from the distillery. The honey comes through clearly, bringing creamy sweetness to the palate. Helpings of peppery spices and oily juniper give it some balance.

Caorunn

Balmenach Distillery, Cairngorms, 41.8%

£6.50

Caorunn, pronounced 'ka-roon', is the Gaelic word for Rowan Berry – a Celtic botanical that forms the very soul of the gin. Made with a combination of traditional and handpicked botanicals including rowan berry, heather, coul blush apple and dandelion.

Seven Crofts

Highland Liquor Co, Ullapool, 43.0%

£6.50

Marvellously flavoursome Scottish gin here from the Highland Liquor Co., Seven Crofts Gin features seven botanicals, including pink peppercorn, cubeb, fresh lemon peel and more. Notes of perfumed forest fruit and a suggestion of woodland. The juniper is assertive with spicy hints of coriander and pink pepper and a long, warm finish.

Scottish Rum

Rum may be more commonly associated with the tropical islands of the Caribbean than the rugged British Isles, but in 2015, rum distillation came to Scotland for what was thought to be the first time when Dark Matter Distillers unveiled its first product.

Cabal No. 1513 Pedro Ximenez Cask Finish

Harpalion Spirits, Edinburgh, 43.0%

£6.50

The rum itself is a blend of 3-5 year old Caribbean rums imported to Speyside to finish in ex-Pedro Ximenez. We will forgive them for importing their rum rather than distilling in Scotland as it tastes so good. A balance of bitter and sweet, Fig, barbecued pineapple and deep caramel tones. This strong fruity profile finishes with sherry, dark chocolate and toasted coffee.

Sea Wolf White Rum

SeaWolfRum, Edinburgh, 41.0%

£6.50

Jason Scott & Mike Aikman of Bramble Bar in Edinburgh (Top 50 Best bar in the World) were looking for a UK based white rum for use in their cocktails. When they couldn't find one they did what any self respecting bartender would do - make their own. Produced at Ogilvy in Angus, using molasses, this is full of tropical-fruit notes, with hints of citrus and spice.

Scottish Vodka

Scotland is in fact, a vodka loving nation, it makes up around 35 per cent of our spirit intake – beating both blended whisky (13 per cent) and gin (7 per cent). However distillation of Vodka in Scotland is still very small scale.

25ml

24 Seven Vodka

Crafty Distillery, Newton Stewart, 40%

£6.00

A seven day fermentation process creates maximum character and mouth feel then multiple distillations are followed by a 24 hour filtration process through the most porous of carbons, coconut shell carbon. Ogilvy Scottish Potato Vodka

Hatton of Ogilvy Farm, Angus, 40%
