

Coravin Wine System

Using the Coravin wine preservation system allows wine to be poured without removing the cork!

A needle pierces the cork, wine is poured and the system replaces the wine with an inert gas preventing any oxygen from entering the bottle.

Therefore the remaining wine is preserved in its original condition. This allows us to offer a much larger selection of wines by the glass some of which would normally only be available by the bottle.

Chardonnay (Bin 51)

Otronia, Patagonia, 2020, 13.5%

£84.00

'Extreme winemaking' best describes Alejandro Bulgheroni's ambition to produce world-class, cool-climate Chardonnay and Pinot Noir in Patagonia's far south. Otronia is located at 45.33° S in the province of Chubut, the most southerly winemaking region in the world.

The environment here is incredibly hostile, with very little rainfall, bitterly cold temperatures, year-round frost risk and blustering winds of up to 110km/hr, all providing highly challenging conditions for viticulture. In addition to implementing nets, thousands of trees have been planted to help shelter vineyards from battering gales. Proving that fortune favours the brave, these merciless conditions give rise to elegant wines with distinct vibrancy, aromatic intensity and a unique sense of place. The Chardonnay is a blend of the best fruit from the limestone soils of blocks 3 and 6. Aged for 18 months in old French foudres, the wine displays lovely freshness and purity.

Port

Sandeman

There are few more iconic images in the world of wine than the 'Don', the logo created for the Sandeman family in 1928 by George Massiot Brown. The cape was modelled on the attire worn by students of the University of Porto, while the sombrero was a nod to the family's presence in Jerez.

Today, the Sandeman Ports are becoming every bit as famous as the image of the Don. This hasn't always been the case, but since the Guedes family bought Sandeman from Seagram in 2002, the major investment that has taken place in the vineyards and the winemaking has seen them rise to the top of the tree in the Port trade.

The House of Sandeman was founded in London in 1790 by George Sandeman, a young Scot from Perth, specialising in wines from Porto and Jerez.

On the nose, there is a bright, aromatic and pungent aroma reflecting the influence of flor yeast – a lightly saline character with notes of bread dough, almonds, olives and dried apples. The wine is dry and fresh on the palate, with a crisp and persistently savoury finish.

Medium dry with a deep mahogany colour. Complex Oloroso characters of roasted almonds, sweet spices and dried fruits are enriched by coffee and treacle flavours from the addition of PX. The final wine is full-bodied, layered and well balanced with a very smooth and velvety finish.

Sherry but possibly not as you know it!

One of the sweetest wines in the world, PX is about as sweet as things can get. Aromas of raisins, molasses, figs, toffee, caramel, nuts, the palate is incredibly thick, dense, with an oily texture, massive concentration and unsurpassed sweetness and prolonged length

Valentian Vermouth's unique flavour is the product of marrying two great flavours and traditions. The Tait brothers dared to pair a crisp Italian white wine with a distinctive Scottish new-make malt spirit. Valentian Rosso is a rich yet delicate vermouth with aromas of bergamot, red summer fruits and malt barley on the nose, lightly candied orchard fruits and gently herbaceous on the palate - a beautiful balance of bitter and sweet.
